

The Three Eternal Destinies #102Tables

Hab 2:2 — The revelation was not given directly to Habakkuk, for it awaits its appointed time in history. In the end it will speak, and it speaks of the end.

So the revelation must be recorded and written down on tablets. Not only must the subject on the signboard be easily read, but the message also must be written in very understandable language, made plain and comprehensible.

Hab 2:2 — Be sure to make plain, very plain on Poster Board or maybe signboard. They should be *poster*s so that everyone who passes by may be able to read it easily. He must be able to read it quickly as he hastens by.

Plain means unobstructed, not intricate, clear, obvious, easily understood, simple, apparent, comprehensible, distinct, evident, legible, manifest, unmistakable, visible, not ornamental (unattractive).

Revelation is a message from God given through a prophet (1 Chr 17:15). This is the beginning of the final revelation which will illuminate the whole earth (Rev 18:1). Hab 1:5 as quoted in Acts 13:41 had nothing to do with Babylon (Chaldeans, Hab 1:6). But now the prophet applies this to the effect of the twelve tribes (Isa 52:15 and (Hab 1:4) of the Three Eternal Destinies of Man message, especially upon the Christianized world.

The fruit of the kingdom in Mt 21:43 and Mt 24:14 will have a startling effect upon the nations (Isa 52:15).

The (especially) prophetic and evangelistic brothers and sisters will more and more be set apart to "table" in downtown sections where appropriate and allowed, with a sign board publicizing the title of the booklets to be given away:

The Three Eternal Destinies of Man

They will be written as 1-12 polished arrows, exhausting the revelation of the Three Eternal Destinies of Man — if, that is, it can be exhausted. At any rate, the message will be exhaustive or comprehensive, covering the subject completely and considering all its elements. Every person alive today falls into one of the three categories in Rev 22:11, and this will be comprehensible to every person alive.
