

Land Mines

Forgiveness cannot be extended to one who minimizes his sin (Pr 28:13). He must deal with and come to grips with the issue, and not store up wrath for the future. Don't let the sun go down on your anger. Get your differences settled TODAY. Don't bury them alive underground, so that they grow into a root of bitterness. You have to bury them dead, not alive. Unresolved resentment or conflict is like a bomb buried, which is bound to blow up at the right time, "defiling many" (Heb 12:15).

Love is never rude and never seeks its own advantage; it does not take offence or store up grievances. (1 Cor 13:5)
